Boulder Internet Television Company Starts World-News Series

Channel One Networks Provide a Weekly Video Segment Covering Local and International Headlines

Channel 1 Networks LLC has started the first and only World News program produced locally called World News Channel One. According to CEO and Founder of Channel one Networks Jann Scott, "In Boulder Colorado among the many other internet television channels we offer, one of the most popular remains to be the World News Channel, where local and international news meets an edgy and comedic twist."

Channel One Networks has adopted the motto: We bring you Boulder, we bring you the world and according to the latest World News segment found on http://www.worldnewschannel1.com, the World News covers issues such as the recent G8 summit meeting regarding Global climate change initiatives and the soaring Chinese economy. "Many viewers chime in and ask us to focus on things that they have been following and whenever it can fit into the World News Segment we make sure to talk about it. It's a way for everyone to be involved in the production, they don't just have to sit there and watch the news they can be part of it," Said Scott.

The World News Channel uses a comedic twist to cover the international and local events, targeting people in and around Boulder Colorado with city initiative updates and issues surrounding housing and university programs. Scott talks about the comedic aspect of World News Channel saying, "I'm not happy unless our viewers are laughing, and we write the news to do just that, to makes people laugh. Who says world news has to be boring? I love how our viewers can be informed about issues and not need to take an antidepressant afterwards."
